From Editor's Desk

Dear Readers, Greetings!

Happy to release the IJCED's April – June 2024 Volume-10, 2nd issue, packed with innovative articles like Artificial Intelligence in dermatology, transdermal drug delivery in dermatology practice etc. "SCOPUS" indexing really uplifted the status of our journal, and happy to share that citations and downloads crossed the earlier milestones. It is our request to all authors, that you can share the journal publication links to your friends, amongst post graduate groups and dermatologic community to improve the citation of published articles. We assure that we never compromise to publish articles of poor standard, or which fails to fulfil the ethical norms. Indeed, I appreciate all members of reviewer and editorial board who constantly monitor the progress until it reaches the final stage of publication and for meticulous efforts. We admit that we refused to accept various manuscripts uploaded by non-dermatology and non-medical post graduates as a kind of gratitude and commitment towards dermatology. It is our customary duty to thank all subscribers, supporters, authors, and Junior Residents for utilizing IJCED for publishing their high-quality original work and constant support.

We encourage all the Medical Education Unit faculties, library purchase committee member's teachers to extend your support by subscribe our journal in Medical College libraries. We offer wide scope to publish under various categories like clinical dermatology, dermato-surgery, cosmetology, aesthetics, paediatric and geriatric dermatology etc. Cost effective diagnostic and therapeutic approaches helpful to all the youngsters will be really honoured. Authors are encouraged to start to pen your manuscripts under various categories like Personal view, review articles, original papers, professional papers, preliminary reports, reviews of scientific meeting and book reviews.

Happy reading.
